International Arab Journal of e-Technology

International Arab Journal of e-Technology (IAJe-T) is a specialized, refereed, and indexed journal that is published twice annually in English. IAJet is the official journal of the Colleges of Computing and Information Society, affiliated with the Association of Arab Universities and published by the Arab Open University, Jordan.

Aims:

The aims of this international journal are to provide a forum for original and significant contributions in the field of e-Technology, to promote exchange of information and knowledge in research work, to explore the new developments and innovations related to the use of e-Technology towards the building of an information society, and to assist the academic staff from local and foreign institutions in publishing research results and studies in Information Technology and e-Technology through a scholarly publication. Published papers will range from reports on systems that are currently being designed, implemented, and used to theoretical papers concerning formal specifications, verifications, and synthesis of information systems related to the scope of this journal. At the same time, published papers presented at conferences may be extended and submitted to this journal. Surveys and tutorials are welcome. In all cases, acceptance of papers are will be based on originally and contribution.
